

ABOUT MYM

Make Your Mark is a sustainable, conscious, and female-led design studio that offers brand strategy and web design, among other services curated for creatives minds looking to break the mold and pave the way in their industry. We're looking for the rebels with a cause- revolutionaries who are ready to be loud and make their story heard. We're here for you, baby. We solve problems and innovate with intention- every design is based in strategy. Let's get you ready to make your mark on the world.

ABOUT MAYA

I'm a New York City-based performer, designer, and rebel who has always chosen to push boundaries and think outside the box.

I'm a graduate of Fordham University with a degree in Global Business and a concentration in Marketing and Consumer Insights. Fresh out of high school, I was offered a full-time position to direct the marketing department of a Silicon Valley start-up. Since then, I've consulted and worked with small businesses, Off-Broadway theater companies, casting companies, and artists to create digital and strategic solutions for those ready to make their mark on the world
